Lorrin Andrews Attorney-General

GOVERNOR DOLE TENDERS THE POSITION TO HIM THIS MORNING AND HE ACCEPTS IT—IS A GRANDSON OF A MISSIONARY BUT WAS BORN IN NEW YORK.

Lorrin Andrews was this morning appointed Attorney General, to succeed E. P. Dole. The appointment was made by the Governor, after a consultation with Andrews. The choice is satisfactory all round and there is complete harmony between the executive and the Republican party leaders, some of whom favored Andrews from the start and declared that his strong services to the party should be recognized.

The new Attorney General is a grandson of the Lorrin Andrews who was one of the early missionaries to arrive in Hawaii, but he was born in New York, and did not come to the Hawaiian Islands until 1898. He was admitted to the bar in New York and served one term in the legislature there. On coming to Honolulu he formed a law partnership with A. S. Humphreys, the partnership being dissolved when Humphreys went on the bench. Andrews then formed the firm of Andrews, Peters & Andrade, from which Peters lately resigned.

Andrews has been prominent in local politics for some time. He was chairman of the Board of Registration, and in the last campaign did a lot of work as President of the Young Men's Republican Club. As a member of the bar he has been prominent, and his selection for the Attorney Generalship is generally regarded among members of the bar as an excellent one.

A WOMAN HELD UP

PEACOCK'S APPEAL TO THE TREASURY

JUDGE ESTEE BEGINS THE TAKING OF TESTIMONY TO BE SENT TO TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

The petition of W. C. Peacock to the Secretary of the Territory, for remission of the fine imposed on him by Judge Estee in the case of the United States against Peacock, came up for hearing this morning before Estee. It is the first case of the kind here, being brought under a statute which allows the taking of testimony to be submitted to the Treasury Department, in cases where persons fined under the statutes think they can secure a remission of the fine.

Peacock was called as a witness by Highton, and gave testimony as to his citizenship. One of the claims of the defense is that Peacock's citizenship is a matter of some legal doubt, and that he cannot therefore be said to have sworn falsely, as alleged, when he took an oath that he was an American citizen. Peacock said he had been a resident in Honolulu since 1886. He was born in Manchester, England, and left that country in 1815. He had had interests in a firm in San Francisco, in W. C. Peacock & Company in Honolulu and W. C. Peacock & Brother in Australia, the last named being a manufacturing firm. This testimony was all admitted, but when Highton came to the defendant's knowledge of the law, Judge Estee interfered.

"On July 2, 1902, had you any knowledge of the fact that the American laws require that the owners of American vessels shall be citizens of the United States?" asked Highton.
Judge Estee said that the defendant's knowledge or ignorance of the law could not be testified to, and there was a lengthy discussion. The attorney claimed that the proceedings was a special one, not subject to the ordinary rules of evidence, and that in a petition to remit a fine he was entitled to show any fact or circumstance tending to show that there had been no intentional offense.

"This court will not listen to, nor certify to any testimony that the defendant didn't know the laws of the United States," said Judge Estee. "This is a statutory court and bound by the rules of evidence, and every lawyer knows that ignorance of the law is not evidence. Testimony that he doesn't know the law will not be allowed unless you want to show that he is not an intelligent man, and everyone knows that he is one of the most intelligent men in the community."
Peacock testified that he had bought the Julia E. Whalen with the money of the Marcus Island Guano Company, which was a corporation organized under the laws of Arizona. He didn't remember just what had occurred on July 2, the day when American register was secured for the Julia E. Whalen. "I remember that I was told by Captain Roschill," said the witness, "either by telephone or some other way, that I had to go to the custom house to sign the registry of the Julia E. Whalen. I went there and signed some document. There was nothing whatever said about citizenship."

BY A NEGRO AND A WHITE MAN

Driving on the Beach Road Early Thursday Morning Miss Hiram was held-up and Robbed.

There was a hold-up on the Beach Road, just at dawn Thursday morning. Miss Eliza Hiram, while driving along the Beach Road, a little before six o'clock in the morning, was held up by a negro and a white man, who took from her all the money she had with her. Miss Hiram is living with her uncle and aunt Mr. and Mrs. John Kamanouli at the end of the extension of Kawaiahao lane, Kewalo. She left the house Thursday morning in a buggy alone to attend an early requiem mass for the repose of the soul of her mother who died recently, at the Catholic Cathedral. She drove by way of the Beach road. Just as she reached the vicinity of the Union Feed Company's barns, a white man and a negro suddenly stopped her. The negro went to the horse's head, halting the horse suddenly while at the same instant the white man, coming up to the side of the buggy, reached a threatening hand in and seized the lines, commanding Miss Hiram at the same time to hand over her money. Startled, she replied that she had no money, but just at this instant the negro came up on the other side of the buggy, repeating the command in menacing tones.

Frightened at the suddenness of the attack and the apparent danger she was in, Miss Hiram, when she saw the threatening attitude of the negro, immediately threw her purse out. Both men grabbed for it instantly, and her horse being freed by this move of the men, she immediately drove on, whipping up the horse and fleeing in fear.

She continued right on to the cathedral, fearing to go back the road she came until after some time she recovered from the fright into which she had been thrown.
The men were not armed, or at least Miss Hiram does not remember to have seen any arms, and they offered her no indignity, other than that of stopping her and demanding her money. She was so frightened that she does not know whether she would be able to identify either of the men or not. She did not notice any peculiarity about their clothing, describing them as being dressed "in ordinary clothes." They were not masked.

She had only fifty cents in her purse, but this the hold-up men got.

WHO WAS ROBBED?
The police think that Roger James the suspected highwayman committed a robbery of some character that was not reported to the authorities. The detective David Kaapa this morning recovered a valuable gold watch and chain which James pawned. The officer has not as yet located the owner of the jewelry. James pawned the watch and chain to J. Castro, a hack driver. Castro gave the negro $15 for the outfit.

The watch is a 14 karat and is a Waltham movement. A monogram in which the letters "D. K. O." are used is engraved on the watch.
